

Lottery Scam?

Calvin and Brian celebrate thier lottery luck. The media also had a stake in the lottery, but failed to win any money. Maybe that's why we're broke?

By Bob, Media Freelancer

In the first lottery, Brian, the sheriff won. That's pretty weird because Brian is Josh, the lottery manager's brother. It could have been more than simple luck. Many people are thinking that some of Josh's friends made deals with Josh about the lottery. The media bought 100 of 240 lottery tickets and I know that Brian only bought 11 tickets. There are many reasons to believe that Josh and Owen cheated the lottery. Also, I would like to point out that Josh isn't paying his earned money to the Chamber of Commerce. In the chamber of Commerce, every member must pay a percent of their income to the chamber. Ten percent goes towards expenses and worker's wages. Josh said that the lottery managers only earned 15 Homey. I think that can only be true if they gave away some of their lottery tickets for free. If they are selling three tickets for 10 Homey, than they should have earned at least 800 Homey on the sale of 240 tickets.

All of the media would like to thank Bob because he gave 150 Homey to us. He has showed the people of Hometown how charitable he is. Thank you very much for being so nice.

Sports News from the Parks and Rec

By Ally and Brooke

On Saturday the 17th of July, the tournaments of soccer, volleyball and basketball where not finished because of the rain. Wayne, Alvin, and Luke later won the soccer tournament. It was finished Tuesday during the afternoon activity.

Bart's Rock-n-Roll Review

My favourite Hometown song is Redemption song. I like the content of the text. The next point is the rhyme, for example the part "these songs of freedom". It also has a good rhythm I can snap my fingers too. The reggae melody sounds good as well. It's just a good song.

My least favourite song is Country Roads. I always had to play it in music school back in Germany. I think the text is also boring. It reminds me of country music which I don't like.

Do You Want a New Job?

Do You Need More People Working For Your Branch?

Ask

NICKY and NAOMI

The Hometown Unemployment people ...

in the Chamber of Commerce